Revathi Kannan

Revathi Kannan graduated with a Bachelor of Laws (Honours) from the University of Malaya and was admitted as an Advocate & Solicitor of the High Court of Malaya in 2009. She has also worked as an Assistant Manager in the Legal Department of SYABAS which is now known as AIR Selangor.

In 2014, she established Messrs. Revathi & Partners, a medium-sized boutique firm based in Puchong, Selangor. She practices in various areas of law and is an Adjudicator in the Asian International Arbitration Centre (AIAC). In 2021, she was appointed as a Fellow and Certified Practitioner (Adjudicator) by the Asian Institute of Alternate Dispute Resolution (AIADR).

In the quest to give back to society, since 2009, she appeared in various media both locally & internationally, giving talks for awareness on various legal topics, including family law, criminal law, banking law, employment law, medical law, cyber law, trust law, contract law, insurance law, Intellectual Property (IP) Law and others.

Outline:

1. Committal proceedings are legal actions brought by one party against another for breaching the terms of a court order, including divorce orders granted by the court when one party fails to comply with its terms.
2. This talk will explore the application of committal proceedings, the timing and prerequisites for commencing them, key considerations before filing, and how courts have handled such proceedings over the years.
3. Specifically, we will examine what constitutes a breach, the necessary evidence and procedural steps, potential consequences for non-compliance, and related case laws.
